

The Interagency Security Committee Regional Advisory Meeting

Educating stakeholders on the Interagency Security Committee (ISC), its standards, compliance, and what it means for your organization.

As part of the National Compliance Advisory Initiative, the ISC has teamed up with the Federal Executive Board and the Federal Protective Service to provide you with the most up-to-date information about industry standards for the security of Federal facilities.

September 13, from 10am—12pm at the Bolling Federal Building
601 E. 12th Street, Room 864, Kansas City, MO 64106

Is Your Facility Compliant with Federal Security Standards?

All nonmilitary Federal facilities are mandated to be compliant with the standards set forth by the ISC. The ISC is the government's central forum for exchanging information on safeguarding Federal facilities nationwide and has produced over 20 security documents regarding industry standards and best practices. Learn about the ISC and how your facility can become compliant at the Regional Advisory Meeting.

Who Should Attend the Regional Advisory Meeting?

Those involved in making facility funding, leasing, security, or other risk management decisions.

Additional Support Opportunity:

The week of September 13, ISC staff will also be available to conduct a limited number of ISC Support Visits with local and regional offices. During these one-on-one meetings, ISC staff provide amplifying information on the ISC and advise on subjects such as Facility Security Committee (FSC) operations and implementation of the ISC Risk Management Process. Please contact below to schedule an ISC Support Visit in addition to attending the Regional Advisory Meeting.
